St. Vitus' Dance

(2003)

- I. Tarantella in the churchyard of St. Magnus [4:00]
- II. Lamentation of the Afflicted [5:40]
- III. Kindling of the Nodfyr [2:30]
- IV. Festival of St. John's Day [4:00]

Duration: 17 minutes

Instrumentation: Brass Quintet [2 Trumpets in C, Horn in F, Trombone, Tuba]

Program note:

"Young people of Saxony were dancing in the churchyard of St. Magnus. There were fifteen youths and four maidens and they danced so much and sang so loudly that they disturbed the priest, who was saying mass. He left the chapel and came out to them, asking them to desist; but, heedless of his injunction, they continued their sport. The priest then prayed to God and to St. Magnus to make them dance for a whole year as a punishment." (Nuremburg Chronicles, 1493)

Setting out to compose a group of dances for the Manhattan Brass Quintet, I became intrigued with the idea of exploring the history of the medieval dancing manias that raged in Europe between the eleventh and seventeenth centuries. In 1278 a crowd of people danced so raucously on a bridge above the Maas River in Germany that it collapsed, killing many participants. Survivors were apparently restored to full health in a nearby chapel dedicated to St. Vitus. Thus referred to as St. Vitus' Dance, these dance manias were sometimes ascribed to chorea, a central nervous system disorder characterized by brief irregular jerking movements resembling dancing. This is reflected in the twitchy, heavily syncopated main theme of this quintet.

An Italian variation of the dancing mania, known as tarantism, was supposedly caused by the bite of a tarantula spider. The only cure was thought to be frenetic dancing of a tarantella, causing the "poison" to dissipate from the victim's blood. Recreating the scene in the churchyard of St. Magnus, the first movement of the quintet transports the Italian tarantella, complete with the opening spider "bites," to Saxony, with the disturbed priest represented by interruptions of increasingly insistent, sonorous, repeated chords.

The second movement transforms the syncopated theme into a chant-like melody presented in rather free canon in this slow, expressive lament. The twitchy dancing continues, however, in the quick ornamentation of some of the counterpoint. After an anguished, faster middle section, the movement reaches a state of calm leading back to a chant reprise.

The third movement presents propulsive yet light bouncy music that rarely seems to touch ground. This is meant to evoke the "Kindling of the Nodfyr," a ritual associated with the dancing manias, involving participants leaping through smoke or flames with the belief this would protect them from disease over the coming year.

The "Nodfyr" ritual, performed at the summer solstice, was incorporated into the festival of St. John's Day as early as the fourth century, resulting in a half-heathen, half-Christian festival. The last movement includes variations of the priest's music, a short pious chant and some music reminiscent of the famous 12th century Notre Dame choirmaster, Perotin. These sacred elements are contrasted with a profane, raucous dance. A central feature of the medieval dance frenzy was participants leaping or jumping continuously for up to several hours through what they claimed were invisible fires, until collapsing in exhaustion, as do the players in the brass quintet at the end of this work, following five last spider bites!

St. Vitus' Dance is dedicated to the members of the Manhattan Brass Quintet, who commissioned the work, and who have performed my other music for brass quintet so well and so frequently over the years.

II. Lamentation of the Afflicted

Examination of the Allegretto

Section 1: Introduction (Measures 1-4)

Tempo: $\text{♩} = 60-72$ molto rubato, independently (except where indicated)

Instrumentation: Tp. 1, Tp. 2, Hn., Trb., Tba.

Key: D major (one sharp)

Section 1 features a complex texture with multiple layers of melodic and harmonic material. The woodwinds (Horn, Trumpet 1, Trumpet 2, Trombone, and Tuba) play a series of eighth and sixteenth notes, often with grace notes, creating a "twitchy" effect. The strings (not shown) provide a harmonic foundation. The woodwinds are marked with pp (pianissimo) and p (piano), and the texture is described as "chant-like, expressive".

Section 2: Main Theme (Measures 5-8)

Tempo: $\text{♩} = 40-60$ molto rubato (keep order of events relatively in tact)

Section 2 introduces a new melodic line for the woodwinds, marked with p (piano) and mp (mezzo-piano). The texture is described as "chant-like, expressive". The woodwinds are marked with pp (pianissimo) and p (piano). The strings (not shown) provide a harmonic foundation. The woodwinds are marked with pp (pianissimo) and p (piano). The texture is described as "chant-like, expressive".

Section 3: Development (Measures 9-12)

Tempo: $\text{♩} = 54-66$ rubato

Section 3 continues the development of the main theme, marked with p (piano) and mp (mezzo-piano). The texture is described as "chant-like, expressive". The woodwinds are marked with pp (pianissimo) and p (piano). The strings (not shown) provide a harmonic foundation. The woodwinds are marked with pp (pianissimo) and p (piano). The texture is described as "chant-like, expressive".

III. Kindling of the Nodfyr

$\text{♩} = 108$ (slightly swing eighths)

Score for Kindling of the Nodfyr, measures 1 through 18. The score is written for five instruments: Trumpet 1 (Tp. 1), Trumpet 2 (Tp. 2), Horn (Hn.), Trombone (Trb.), and Tuba (Tba.). The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 3/8. The tempo is marked $\text{♩} = 108$ (slightly swing eighths). The score is divided into three systems, with measure numbers 10, 15, and 18 indicated at the beginning of each system.

System 1 (Measures 1-9): The Horn, Trombone, and Tuba parts begin with a melody in measure 1, marked mp. The Trumpet parts are silent.

System 2 (Measures 10-18): The Horn, Trombone, and Tuba parts continue their melody. The Horn part includes dynamic markings p, mf, and p. The Trombone part includes p, mf, and p. The Tuba part includes p, mf, and p. The Trumpet parts remain silent.

System 3 (Measures 18-24): The Horn, Trombone, and Tuba parts continue their melody. The Horn part includes dynamic markings mf, p, mp, mf, mp, p, and pp. The Trombone part includes mf, p, mp, mf, mp, p, and pp. The Tuba part includes mf, p, mp, mf, mp, p, and pp. The Trumpet parts remain silent.

9 $\text{♩} = 84$ 15

accelerando poco a poco...

17 $\text{♩} = 96$ ($\text{♩} = 192$) 21 ($\text{♩} = 128$)

Score for five instruments: Tp. 1, Tp. 2, Hn., Trb., and Tba. The score is divided into three systems, each with a tempo change. The first system (measures 1-8) is marked $\text{♩} = 96$ and ends with a ritardando. The second system (measures 9-16) is marked $\text{♩} = 84$ and ends with an accelerando. The third system (measures 17-24) is marked $\text{♩} = 96$ ($\text{♩} = 192$) and $\text{♩} = 128$, showing a significant increase in tempo. The score includes various dynamics (ff, f, mf, mp, p, pp) and articulation marks (accents, slurs, staccato). The key signature is B-flat major (two flats). The time signature changes from 3/4 to 2/4 and back to 3/4.
